Do you want a great press release, compelling language for a website, or to turn your blog into a book?

The Green Mama can help

She has worked with

- PR companies as a one-woman marketing team about all things green
- small businesses writing language for their websites and marketing
- writers on their book projects and students on their theses
- and is the author of Green Mama: Giving your child a healthy start and a greener future.

In just 2 hours, I can give you $50,000 worth of writing advice... my entire MFA boiled down to a pot of coffee and a scone.

Manda Aufochs Gillespie has an MFA in writing, taught writing classes at a University level, worked as a Managing Editor for a news magazine, and has had a book published.

What her clients say

“Best article ever written about Project Somos,” Heather Knox, Project Somos.

“Manda is able to take technical language and make it accessible to all. It's like hiring an entire PR team, but a lot more affordable.” Dr. Sanja Tamburic, Vancouver Naturopathic Clinic

"A really great editor. I would recommend Manda to any writer working on a book project." Carrie Saxifrage, author of The Big Swim
